'Must do better' says school Ofsted report

PRAISED: Vanessa Whitcombe

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach\_mc94CN

CASTLE Manor Academy in Haverhill has been downgraded to 'requires improvement' in its latest Ofsted report.

At its previous inspection in June 2013, it had been rated good.

Of the five areas assessed: effectiveness of leadership and management; quality of teaching, learning and assessment; personal development, behaviour and welfare; outcome for pupils; and 16 to 19 study programmes, all were rated as 'requires improvement'.

However, the report did praise the work of new head teacher Vanessa Whitcombe, appointed in April 2016, for her work to make rapid improvements in teaching and strategic planning.

She said: "The inspection mirrored our own evaluation and gave us reassurance that the work we are doing is beginning to have an impact and raise standards."

The report stated specific concerns about the progress made by pupils, especially "disadvantaged pupils" which was well below the national average.

Attendance was deemed too low

'REQUIRES IMPROVEMENT': Castle Manor Academy

and persistent absence too high.

The report also confirmed that Castle Manor sixth form will close this summer, July 2017, because the numbers attending are not "viable".

Governors were also criticised for not effectively holding senior leaders to account.

Ofsted inspectors praised the school's inclusion as part of the Samuel Ward Academy Trust in December 2016, for helping to improve the school across the board.

Howard Lay, chief executive of Samuel Ward Academy Trust said he was "absolutely confident" the school would quickly improve.

Head teacher Vanessa Whitcombe said: "I hope parents will see the hard work that has been going on at the school in the past 18 months from leaders, staff, students and, of course, parents."

Ofsted added students had developed "positive and constructive attitudes to their own learning".

DJ backs bands with compilation

TWO Haverhill bands will be featured on a new compilation CD put together by Cambridge 105 DJ Dave Hammond.

Umbrella Assassins and 3 Screaming Popes are on the Cambridge Calling, Volume 1 CD due out on Friday, March 17.

Mr Hammond, who has lived in Haverhill for 15 years, spent a year working on the project after regularly playing new and unsigned local bands on his fortnightly radio show The Smelly Flowerpot.

He says there is enough interest for another two volumes and one could be out this summer.

COMMUNITY

Thousands of books missing

NEARLY 10,000 books, CDs and DVDs are missing from 77 libraries across Suffolk.

Haverhill Library was found to be 295 items short on its list of catalogued items, Clare had 76, Kedington, 30, and Highpoint prison just nine items short.

Comparatively, Haverhill and its surrounding villages were still some of the best in the county in terms of missing stock.

Ipswich library was missing 907 items and Newmarket 434.

Alison Wheeler, chief executive of Suffolk Libraries, said: "Clearly some of these items will have been taken from libraries and if someone is suspected of stealing we will contact the police and this will be treated as a criminal matter."

The total missing items is 9,486 and makes up less than 1 per cent of all Suffolk Libraries catalogue of items, over a three year period.

Mrs Wheeler urged people to put the figures into context saying that items may just have been misplaced if not scanned properly at a self-service machine or may have been put back in the wrong place.

Mrs Wheeler added: "We are never complacent about missing items, particularly at a time when funding is so challenging, and we do try to do all we can to be vigilant.

"We'd appeal to anyone who is aware of someone stealing library items to report this to the police or contact Suffolk libraries."

RACHAEL MC MENEMY
@rach\_mc94CN

New equipment is being brought in to tackle the problem of missing books and other items, including self-service machines to stop people leaving with items without checking them out.

CCTV is also already in place across Suffolk libraries and Mrs Wheeler said that anyone suspected of stealing would be caught on camera.

Cllr Richard Smith, Suffolk County Council's cabinet member for finance and heritage said: "The books are a valuable asset and we are confident Suffolk libraries exercise good stewardship of them."

"Stolen items deprive other people the use of them and while the problem is very minor, both Suffolk county council and Suffolk libraries take it very seriously."

School library gets a revamp

LINTON CE Infant school has opened a revamped library with week-long celebrations, coinciding with World Book Day.

The library, formerly neglected and used for storage, was given a facelift with comfy new furnishings, a digital book cataloguing system, and several new books.

Local science and children's writer Isabel Thomas cut the ribbon at the opening ceremony.

She also gave a talk and ran workshops for Linton pupils.

Headteacher Kelly Harries said: "The library was not being used to its full potential."

"It was more of a room full of books than a library."

She said: "It became a school priority to make it a more exciting and engaging facility for the children to use."

"It is all about trying to promote a love of reading, and encouraging reading at home as a family activity."

Teacher Stephanie Booth said: "It has been such a joy to see the children getting interested in reading because of the library."

HOUSING

Plan approved for new homes

PLANNING permission has been granted for up to 2,500 homes near Haverhill.

Outline permission for the North East site on Great Wilsey Park, Little Wrattling, been given by St Edmundsbury Borough Council's Development Control Committee.

Haverhill councillors on the committee raised concerns about the capability of infrastructure, like health and roads, to cope during and after construction.

Cllr Paula Fox said: "Health services in Haverhill are crumbling."

Tensions also ran high about the relief road which has been included as part of planning permission for a development in the North West of the town.

A deal made during the planning process for the North West development in Ann Suckling Road said it would only begin construction once building started on site and would have to be completed within five years.

Councillors argued the relief road was a necessity and

CRIME

Pensioner targeted by con man

POLICE are appealing for witnesses after an elderly woman was targeted by a rogue trader.

The victim received a call at the door from a man who claimed to be doing roof repairs following the storm last week.

The suspect said he could check the roof for any damage which the victim agreed to.

He went on to the roof where he lifted up some tiles and said he could repair the damage for just over £2,000, but would require the payment up front.

The victim got the cash out to pay him and the suspect then said he needed to go and get the materials for the job, driving off and not returning.

He is described as white, aged in his 30s, around 5ft 5in tall, of medium build, with short brown hair.

The man was wearing a green sweatshirt with 'Robocover' in white letters on the left chest. He was driving a white Transit-style van, also with 'Robocover' on the side, in green writing.

Any witnesses, or anyone with information about this crime, is asked to contact Bury St Edmunds CID on 101 quoting reference 20338/17, or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

must be built sooner rather than later if any development was ever to be sustainable.

Cllr Tony Brown, speaking on behalf of residents in the Withersfield ward, said: "My main concern is the A1307 is already overstretched. There is another development at Haverhill North West and the cumulative impact will be severe on the road."

The increased pressure on the A1307 was also given as a concern by councillors worried that without the relief road neighbouring villages, such as Kedington, would be used as 'rat runs' by Cambridge commuters avoiding congestion.

Planning officer Chris Rand said that the relief road could only be built at no expense to the tax payer if done as part of the North West development site as already approved.

As part of the debate on infrastructure, councillors Paula Fox, John Burns and Tony Brown all mentioned the Haverhill railway which closed 50 years ago on Monday, March 6, as another infrastructure problem.

Concerns were also raised about inadequate bus routes, the placement of tree borders, habitat preservation for the hazel dormouse, and access routes in and out of the site and country park.

Alongside the dwellings there is also permission for two primary schools, two local centres for community, retail or employment use and a country park.

An area of 4.8 hectares of the country park will be donated to Samuel Ward Academy for educational purposes.

Councillors voted in favour of granting outline planning permission by nine votes to three. Three councillors abstained.

Arrests made in drug operation

A CRACKDOWN on the supply of class A drugs has led to seven arrests.

Police made the arrests and recovered cash, drugs and possible stolen property during a week of action across west Suffolk.

A 28-year-old woman from Haverhill was arrested on suspicion of drug-driving and possession of counterfeit currency after a vehicle was stopped in The Street in Horringer.

The vehicle was seized as the driver also had no licence or insurance.

She has now been bailed until April 6, pending further enquiries.

The arrests come as part

MCMENEMY

@rach\_mc94CN

of a police crackdown on class A drugs in Haverhill.

Haverhill Inspector Danny Cooper said: "Community intelligence following arrests and seizures is important as dealers are often replaced."

He appealed to the community to continue to report what they see.

He said: "These may be pieces of information where we need to obtain a warrant.

"There will be further ongoing enforcement as it [drug seizures] remains a priority for Haverhill."

During the week of action police made arrests in Newmarket, Sudbury and Bury St Edmunds.

In Newmarket a vehicle was stopped in Noel Murrell Drive.

A 35-year-old man from Newmarket was arrested on suspicion of disqualified driving, possession of class B drugs and drug-driving.

The Jaguar was seized as there was no insurance in place for the vehicle.

A drugs warrant was then carried out at an address in George Lambton Avenue, resulting in the seizure of what are believed to be class A and class B drugs and a large quantity cash.

Det Insp Craig Brett said: "We are continuing our work to target those dealing drugs in west Suffolk and this was a particularly successful week with a number of arrests made and items seized.

"All of these cases are currently under investigation, we will also continue to carry out activities such as warrants to target those involved in supplying drugs in the county."

Pictures from the past

THIS week, we've found some old photographs taken at Haverhill sports centre.

The centre, on Ehringshausen Way, opened in October 1971, and was the venue for a variety of activities that the whole family could enjoy.

It underwent a £5.2m refurbishment in 2009 to make it the leisure centre of today.

Clockwise from top: Terry Keogh, manager, in 1982, inset, Terry's retirement party, 1990; a women's activities class, 1981; two photographs of a fun club, 1987; and an activity class for mum and child, 1989.

EVENT

Delving into town's working past

RACHAEL MC MENEMY

@rach_mc94CN

VISITORS got a fascinating insight into what it was like to work in Haverhill in the 60s at a special exhibition in the town.

The Family History Group spent 18 months gathering memories and memorabilia for the project, thanks to funding from OneHaverhill.

Workers past and present and members of the public got a chance to explore the Haverhill at Work exhibition in the Arts Centre at the weekend.

It included a collection of recordings from people who had worked locally during the town's expansion period in the 60s, which were played to audiences in the centre's auditorium.

The group's project was inspired by a hope that future generations could appreciate what it was like to be an employee in Haverhill at the time.

Memorabilia from well-known employers like Gurteens was included in the exhibition. Drop-in sessions had been held over a year and around 300 people had become involved to learn and share more about the town.

In future, the family history group hopes to make the recordings available to the public. In the meantime, anyone wanting to listen to the interviews is advised to contact the history group directly.

A poster presentation, included in the exhibition, continues to be displayed in the Arts Centre's cafe area and the collection of souvenirs and keepsakes will be available in the Local History group room until March 24.

NOSTALGIA: Visitors enjoy exploring the exhibition of memorabilia from some of the town's largest employers, including Gurteens

TRIBUTE

Ex-councillor and chef dies

RACHAEL MC MENEMY
@RACH_MCM94CN

TRIBUTE has been paid to John Collar, a long-serving Braintree district councillor and Sturmer restauranteur.

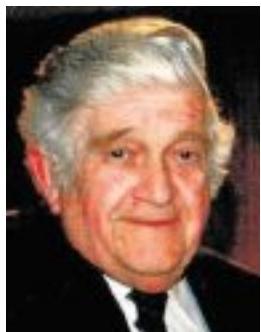

Mr Collar who died aged 84, leaves his wife of 62 years, Barbara, two sons, Roger and Richard, six grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Mr Collar, a chef, ran the Spinning Wheel restaurant in Sturmer for more than 20 years, taking the reins in 1971 with wife Barbara.

She said: "It's hard to think of a favourite memory, we were together most of the time because we were working together in the restaurant."

Following the closure of the Spinning Wheel, Mr Collar served two stints as a district councillor from 1991 to 1995 and again from 1999 to 2011, for Bumpstead in Braintree.

Mr Collar got involved in local groups including serving as a civilian committee member for the Haverhill Air Training Corps after son Richard joined when he was 13.

FAMILY MAN: John Collar has died, aged 84

Mrs Collar said her husband continued his work with the corps long after their son left because he enjoyed the work so much.

During his time as a chef, and later on the management side, the couple lived across the south east and London.

At one time Mr Collar worked for the BBC, managing the canteen at White City, and then opened up the kitchen at the Cambridge TV studios in Kedington.

Mrs Collar says his work opened them up to new experiences, including tickets to the last night at the Proms.

Eventually Mr Collar decided he wanted to run his own restaurant, prompting the decision for the couple to buy the Spinning Wheel in Sturmer.

Mrs Collar recalls that as a district councillor her husband especially enjoyed his time on the planning and licensing committees.

Mrs Collar fondly recalls once attending a 'very special' Buckingham Palace garden party as part of Mr Collar's work on the district council.

The funeral will be held on March 20 at Three Counties Crematorium, Braintree at noon.

Improvement plans to A1307 facing delays

TOM PILGRIM

@TomPilgrimCN

PLANS for improvements to the A1307, including the possibility of a busway over the Gog Magog hills have been delayed, amid claims the plans are years out of date.

The Greater Cambridge City Deal's executive board met on Wednesday when they heard that modelling data for improving the road was "years, not months" out of date, and failed to take into account the growth of towns like Haverhill and Linton, commuters from which use the A1307 to access Cambridge on a daily basis.

The claims were made by City Deal assembly chairman, Cllr Roger Hickford, who called on the board to delay the consultation on plans until September to allow more community workshops to work up ideas.

Cllr Hickford said: "The information is years not months out of date for the growth of Haverhill and Linton."

"I don't think there is a lot of joined up thinking on this."

Haverhill councillor, Tony Brown said: "There will be 4000 new homes built in Haverhill over the next 15 years, many of these new residents that work will be commuting along the A1307."

A council officer said the data was as up to date as it could be.

During a St Edmundsbury borough council development control committee meeting on Thursday last week Haverhill councillors warned of increased pressures on the A1307 as a further 2,500 homes were approved around the town.

Haverhill councillors are arguing for a relief road to be built before any more housing developments to lessen pressure on the A1307.

At the City Deal meeting Cllr Hickford called for the public consultation on the A1307 plans, which had been due to start in June, to be delayed until September.

This, he said, would allow more opportunity for public workshops to work up plans which would be more popular with the public.

The board voted to accept Cllr Hickford's suggestion.

County council and City Deal officer, Graham Hughes, said improving the A1307 was a clear priority and that it was important to work with communities to reach the right decisions.

"The A1307 was a priority scheme for Tranche One funding," said Mr Hughes.

He added: "It was made clear that improvements to that road are needed.

"Just under 1,500 responses were logged to the concepts we had. There was a strong level of support."

Mr Hughes said the ideas that had been put forward were a series of junction and road improvements at the Haverhill end of the road, with a new park and ride to be located near the Four Went Ways roundabout.

He also said the report looks into the possibility of a west-bound busway over the Gog Magog hills, though it is made clear this would be within the confines of the existing carriageway.

Mr Hughes said there were still some issues that needed ironing out, including issues around land ownership.

These meetings follow on from the first Local Liaison Forum (LLF) at Linton where members felt the proposed plans were not well thought out.

At a meeting of the Cambridge City Deal Assembly last week Cambridgeshire county councillor Tony Ogree told the assembly that there was "incredulity" at some of the plans outlined for the road corridor, such as a new westbound bus lane on Linton High Street.

SLOW DOWN: City Deal Joint Assembly members are asking for more time to respond to local concerns about proposals to upgrade the A1307 corridor

MALDIVES FEELS THE FORCE

WHETHER Star Wars can claim credit is debatable, but there's no doubt the Maldives is riding high as a wish-list holiday destination. Footage shot on location for movie Rogue One certainly helped boost interest, according to the Kuoni Worldwide Trends Report 2017, which rates the Indian Ocean idyll as a top destination for the year ahead.

Mauritius, Sri Lanka and Thailand also fared well in predictions based on customer bookings. Thailand has proved particularly popular for LGBT holidays. Sales for same-sex honeymoons are up 22% following the launch of Kuoni's dedicated team of LGBT experts.

Canada's party plans put on ice

LINDSAY SUTTON chills out for Canada's big anniversary and hears all about the birthday bash

IF YOU want to celebrate Canada's 150th birthday party, you'd better put your skates on.

The big day itself is on July 1, but right now, everyone's lacing up their skating boots in the capital city of Ottawa to kick start the celebrations early.

At temperatures of minus 10°C, the weather has been kind to them.

Nobody is skating on thin ice. It's at least a foot thick on the city's Rideau Canal, the biggest natural ice rink in the world.

Little wonder that Ottawa's great feat of civil engineering – nearly five miles of 'frozen freeway' at this time of year – has been given UNESCO status.

It's all part of the city's annual 'Winterlude,' a fun-packed focus of frozen frolics designed this year to kick-start Canada 150, which celebrates the coming together as one country back in 1867.

Being there for the opening weekend was a real pleasure, despite the chilly conditions. Unlike Disney's Frozen, this is the real deal, and since you're well wrapped up, you do get that authentic Canadian feeling. As Ottawans say: "There's no such thing as bad weather, just bad clothing."

In many ways, Ottawa itself feels to be frozen in time. It has an old-style charm that takes you back to more innocent days, and there's nothing cold-hearted about its approach to visitors.

It may be freezing on the streets, but the welcome you receive, and the simple pleasures on offer, warm your heart.

Ottawans, you see, live by the mantra: You either hibernate or celebrate.

There's a real feelgood factor throughout the city, and that augers well for the country's 'Big One' – the celebration of 'Canada 150' on the exact date when the country became a confederation, pulling together most parts of this vast country.

So, apart from learning to stay upright on ice, what is there to do in Ottawa?

Winterlude offers simple, old-style attractions that are wholesome and free. Families and friends, old and young alike, beat a path across the Ottawa River bridge from the capital city in Ontario Province, to Gatineau in Gallic-speaking Quebec.

Celebrate Canada's 150th anniversary in Ottawa

You travel from English first to French, although everyone is bilingual, open and friendly. There's no Trump wall here.

In Gatineau, the Snowflake Festival – or Bal de Neige – is something else. In a vast parkland running down to the river bank, French and English speakers unite in the pleasures of winter pursuits.

The ice-coated snow chutes are the most popular, as you hurl down on giant rubber rings. You can go four or five abreast, linking arms, and spinning round if one end sets off before the other.

There's an ice maze for children, with adults peering over the walls to see their offspring don't get lost or frightened. The 'snow snake' challenge is a game inherited from the First Nations, and gives huge pleasure, despite being so simple.

Each contestant gets a two-foot long stick, which you have to hurl down a long, thin channel of snow. A five-year-old and an 80-year-old held the lead when I had a bash, showing that technique, not brute strength, is the key to achieving the longest throw.

Then there was the children's sack

NEED TO KNOW

■ LINDSAY SUTTON flew courtesy of Air Canada from London Heathrow direct to Ottawa. Return fares are from £585 at aircanada.com

■ He stayed at the newly-built, city centre Ottawa Andaz Hotel, with nightly rates from £156 per room for two – andazottawa.com.

■ For information on Ottawa's attractions see ottawatourism.ca race on snow. Positively charming and a real blast from the past, most of the young contestants' grandparents recalling that they hadn't seen such an event since they were at school themselves.

Back in the city of Ottawa, there's Winterlude's 'Ice Block Challenge,' where contestants are issued a huge, same-size chunk of solid ice to sculpt their own exhibit.

Two hours is the allotted time, with strict judging. As our guide said: "It's serious business, with seven nationalities competing against our home-grown talent. But it's fun and very creative. Another way you learn to love winter."

Nearby is that frozen Rideau Canal, with a mass of pretty proficient skaters – and one true Brit trying to master putting all his weight on two quarter-inch strips of metal, while balancing and pushing off with each foot in turn. There's a first time for everything, and eventually you get the hang of it.

Or you can just watch, and tuck into a tasty pasty at the Beaver Tail huts all along the route.

Winterlude is just part of the big picture for Canada 150, which aims to "spark people's imagination and use the celebration events as an inspiration for the future," according to guiding light Guy Laflamme, who is head of the Ottawa 2017 Bureau and the man behind the birthday plans. There's no doubt that "intensity and excitement" will be part and parcel of the nationwide events throughout the entire anniversary year of 2017.

Excitingly, Ottawa's half-completed new subway system will be opened to the public as a "cutting-edge, light and sound experience, with access to the future through a science fiction production." More than 300,000 people have already booked time slots between June and September.

There'll be world-class concerts, an 'Inspiration Village' built of sea containers, picnics on the Ottawa River, bootleg boat cruises, and a 'dine in the sky' offering where a massive table and chairs are suspended by a crane while people eat.

Then there's La Machina, the giant French-made puppets that took Liverpool by storm during their City of Culture celebrations. A giant dragon is being loaned by Ottawa's twin city of Beijing, and a giant spider will add to this in summer.

Getting to Ottawa is a breeze, travelling on Air Canada's state-of-the-art and fuel-efficient Dreamliner, designed to bring more space in its three-cabin layout. I recommend paying that bit extra to go in Premium Economy for the seven-and-a-half hour daily direct flight from Heathrow. Cabin staff reflect their country – a 'can do' spirit without being loud or brash.

Winterlude has kick-started events, and springtime will see the build-up, with the peak events round July 1's Canada Day for the 150 Special, and then on into autumn. What a year for Ottawa and for Canada as a whole!

ELVIS IS IN THE BUILDING: But tickets are almost sold out for JD King's Elvis on Friday, March 31

FIRST out of the stable this week is one for all the cowboys and cowgals; it's time to whipcrack-away with Calamity Jane the Sing-a-long version on Friday, March 10. Doris Day stars as good ol' Jane and Howard Steel as her lover/singing partner Buffalo Bill, two Wild West legends who definitely knew not to squat with their spurs on. This version of history may not help you pass any history tests but that is more than made up for by the joy of singing along to all those Golden Age tunes. Experience Calamity Jane on Friday, March 10 at 7.30pm.

Based on the hugely popular TV comedy by Jeremy Lloyd and David Croft, follow the adventures of René, the hapless café owner in war-torn, occupied France. From Wednesday, March 15 to Saturday, March 18 those intrepid Centre Stagers perform the stage version of 'Allo, 'Allo. René and his wife Edith are struggling to keep for themselves the portrait of the Madonna with the big ... smile which is kept in a sausages (very big, naturally) in the cellar. There will be lots of convincingly unconvincing French accents, some ridiculous Nazis, waitresses in black and white uniforms and maybe a few stripy t-shirts and 'good moanings'. On Tuesday, March 21 at 7.30pm is The Artist's Garden. It is an in-depth documentary, inspired by the Florence Griswold Museum's very popular exhibition American Impressionism and the Garden Movement. Find out how American Impressionism was tied to a desire to preserve nature in a rapidly changing world. Olivia is a familiar-ish story about a downtrodden Victorian orphan. This orphan however doesn't end up in the care of a loving grandfather but as a star of the stage. Along the way she meets Eliza Doolittle, Scrooge, and Sherlock Holmes as well as Fagin and Dodger. Performed by the students of Stoke College this witty show for all the family is on Wednesday, March 22 and Thursday, March 23 at 7pm. My Feral Heart is a moving film that follows Luke. After his mother passes away, Luke, who has Down syndrome, is forced to move into a care home, despite the fact that it was he who was the caregiver to her. After sneaking out of the house to explore the countryside, he meets a young woman who gives him hope and purpose. HOSPITAL RUNAROUND: For kids

It's child's play with Rolls-Royce toy car

ROLLS-ROYCE has developed a bespoke child-sized version of the luxury model to enable children facing surgery to drive themselves to the operating theatre.

The Rolls-Royce SRH takes its initials from its recipient – St Richard's Hospital paediatric day surgery unit in the exclusive car manufacturer's home city of Chichester, West Sussex.

Children facing surgery will be able to drive the SRH themselves to the operating theatre, through the paediatric corridors which are lined with mock traffic signs.

With a top speed of 10mph, the SRH is powered by a 24-volt gel battery that propels the car with the same gentle quietness as Rolls-Royce's famed V12 engines.

The bespoke manufacturing team spent 400 hours of their own time developing and hand-crafting the car, with the aim of soothing children's nerves before surgery.

Steven Eagell says 'Buy now before tax change'

MILTON Keynes-based automotive group Steven Eagell is urging drivers to bring forward any new car purchase to this March, to beat the government's Vehicle Exercise Duty (VED) changes, which come into effect on April 1.

The privately-held, family run company has created a section on its website – steveneagell/toyota.co.uk/ved – to help explain what these changes mean, particularly for drivers of hybrid vehicles, and the benefits of acquiring a new vehicle now.

To help customers save even more on a new vehicle, the group is hosting a new car event at all its branches between March 8 and March 12, offering 100 new vehicles it has acquired from Toyota, to its customers at a massively discounted rate of just £100 over cost price.

Having recently expanded its operation across Cambridgeshire, Essex and Suffolk, with the acquisition of six Toyota and two Lexus dealerships to add to its 12 existing branches, the company is keen to pass on the savings from its bigger buying power to customers.

Managing director, Steven Eagell, commented on the acquisition: "We are delighted to welcome our new colleagues to the team, and look forward to working with them in continuing to provide an excellent customer experience."

"This acquisition fits geographically and strategically with our growth ambitions, allowing us to further leverage our strong and long-standing relationship with our manufacturer partners, Toyota (GB) and Lexus (GB), to benefit our customers."

The new acquisitions are:

- Toyota Cambridge
- Toyota Chelmsford
- Toyota Ipswich
- Toyota Rayleigh

- Toyota Romford
- Toyota St Ives
- Lexus Cambridge
- Lexus Ipswich

Mr Eagell added: "A swift integration with minimum disruption is our top priority, along with delivering a first-class customer experience throughout these new territories."

These acquisitions follow continued investment in the company's existing facilities, completing a showroom refurbishment at both its flagship showroom in Milton Keynes, and its Northampton branch.

Additionally, its Letchworth branch doubled its on-site used car capacity by extending the forecourt to accommodate up to 100 vehicles.

As part for the acquisition, the group also acquired the Lexus Service & Maintenance Centre in Southend, Essex taking the total number of businesses operated by the company to 21.

Next-generation Fiesta ST features three-pot 1.5 unit

THE hot version of Ford's next generation Fiesta will feature a three-cylinder 1.5-litre engine boosted to deliver 200ps.

To be unveiled at the Geneva Motor Show in March, the new Fiesta ST is the first version developed by Ford Performance to come with drive mode controls for added driver engagement.

Ford is claiming a 0 to 60 sprint time of 6.7 seconds for the new ST which is slated to come on stream early in 2018.

The 200ps output sets a new standard for Ford's three pot EcoBoost engine and despite the brisk performance it is fitted with an active cylinder cut out to improve fuel efficiency.

Expected economy will be around 57mpg with emissions of 114g/km.

As well as variable drive modes enabling engine, steering and stability controls to be configured to Normal, Sport and Track settings the ST will also incorporate an active noise system to enhance the exhaust note..

Standard fit for the Fiesta ST will be 18-inch alloys and a mesh grille and the model will be available in both three and five door body styles.

Interior specification includes Recaro sports seats, an eight-inch touchscreen incorporating Ford's SYNC 3 connectivity system and a B&O Play audio system.

An optional 'Liquid Blue' colour scheme will also be making its debut on the new Fiesta ST.

Prices for the new Fiesta range are expected to be announced in the summer.

FORD'S NEW FIESTA ST: 18-inch alloys are standard

SKODA SCOUT: From £25,130

Order books open for Skoda Scout, vRS

SKODA has announced that ordering for the new Octavia vRS and Scout ranges are now open, with prices starting from £25,130.

The 2017 Octavia vRS features the same evolution of the brand's celebrated design language as the standard Octavia. vRS models are available in two body styles (hatch and Estate) with a choice of petrol or diesel engines, manual or DSG automatic gearboxes and front or four-wheel drive.

The 2.0-litre turbocharged petrol engine now produces 230PS as standard (+10PS), and can accelerate from 0-62mph in 6.7 seconds (6.8 seconds for DSG) before reaching a top speed of 155 mph. Combined fuel consumption for the petrol-powered Octavia vRS is 43.5 mpg for the manual version, and 42.8 mpg for the DSG-equipped model.

Vindis Skoda is on (01223) 660171.

OUCH: Young driver premiums up

Young drivers hardest hit in accident review

YOUNG drivers will be the worst affected by the Government's review of accident compensation payouts, following a recent announcement.

The Ministry of Justice was lobbied by ambulance-chasing law firms to review the Ogden rate – the formula used to calculate payouts to personal injury claimants. These organisations called for larger payouts to crash victims, which would allow them to increase their own fees.

It's understandable that drivers feel out of the loop, given that the cost of car tax and car emissions are major considerations when choosing a new car. Over half (53 per cent) consider the cost of car tax when purchasing a new vehicle, while two-fifths (43 per cent) consider the car's CO2 output.

Amanda Stretton, motoring editor at Confused.com, says: "With just 31 days to go it's vital that motorists get to grips with the changes.

"If you are looking to buy a new car, it's definitely worth considering a purchase before April 1, as your decision will affect the amount of tax you pay for years to come."

CAR TAX: Rises across the board

Car tax law lowdown: New laws for cars registered from April 1

- The new laws only apply to new 2017-plate cars registered from April 1
- The 'first licence rate' for vehicle tax remains the same in the first year, and continues to be based on the vehicle's CO2 emissions.
- After the first year the vehicle will pay one of three standardised rates based on the vehicles fuel type:
  - £140 per year for petrol and diesel vehicles
  - £130 per year for 'alternative fuel' vehicles, such as hybrids
  - £0 per year for zero emissions vehicles, such as fully electric
- Vehicles where the manufacturers list price is over £40,000 will have to pay an additional £310 on top of the standard rate for five years. After this it will be taxed at the standard rate.

Currently, car tax is calculated on a vehicle's CO2 emissions. Cars below 120g/km pay as little as £0-£30 annually, while comparatively more pollutant vehicles with emissions over 255g/km pay £515 per year. However, under the new rules, revised emissions-based tax brackets have been created, which will mean that anyone buying a new car from April 1 may have to pay a much higher emissions-based 'licence rate' in their first year. For example, owners of new cars with emissions of 120g/km will pay a first year rate of £160, while owners of cars with emissions over 255g/km will pay a whopping £2,000 in the first year.

But it doesn't end there. Anyone buying a new car from April will have to pay a standardised rate of car tax after their first year, which for petrol or diesel cars is £140, regardless of the vehicle's emission levels.

It seems the standardised rate of tax will hit owners of lower emissions vehicles the hardest. For example, those buying new vehicles with emissions of 120g/km will find themselves paying £160 in their first year and £140 every year after. So with the average driver owning their car for up to five years, this will equate to a whopping £720 over five years, compared to just £150 they would have paid if they bought their car before April 1 2017.

It's fair to say that drivers are disillusioned with the new rules. Over half (55 per cent) think that the tax changes are in place just to make the government money, and over a quarter (29 per cent) believe it's a move to encourage people to buy electric cars. And more than half (57 per cent) think the rules are just imposing yet another unnecessary cost for drivers.

It's understandable that drivers feel out of the loop, given that the cost of car tax and car emissions are major considerations when choosing a new car. Over half (53 per cent) consider the cost of car tax when purchasing a new vehicle, while two-fifths (43 per cent) consider the car's CO2 output.

Amanda Stretton, motoring editor at Confused.com, says: "With just 31 days to go it's vital that motorists get to grips with the changes.

"If you are looking to buy a new car, it's definitely worth considering a purchase before April 1, as your decision will affect the amount of tax you pay for years to come."

In the wake of rising motoring costs, the countdown is on for car buyers who have just 31 days to save up to £1,500 on the first year of tax on their new vehicle. Government rules coming into force from April 1 will increase car tax of some 2017-plate vehicles to £2,000 for the first year and introduce a standardised rate of up to £140 from the second year of ownership.

But according to research by car savings site Confused.com almost seven in 10 (68 per cent) drivers in East Anglia are unaware of the new car tax laws. And even though there is only a month to go before the laws come into force, awareness of the law seems to be low across the UK. Shockingly, only one in 10 (11 per cent) UK drivers understand the new rules, which could set them back hundreds of pounds when buying a new car.

According to Confused.com's research, the average driver currently pays around £102 for their car tax every year. But the 15 per cent of drivers who are planning to buy a new car in the next six months may now have to pay a much higher emissions-based rate within their first year and up to £140 each year after.

exclusive offer for Cambridge News plus+ members

A woman with glasses and a white scarf is smiling behind a stall counter. The background features a green sign with the text "Brazilian & Portuguese SPECIALITY DISHES". Below the sign, there are two sections: "FEIJOADA BRASILEIRA" and "BACALHAU (SALT COD)". To the right, under the heading "BRAZILIAN STREET FOOD", are "CHURRASQUINHAS" and "PASTEL". In the foreground, there's a small inset image showing two fried pastel (stuffed bread) items. On the counter, there are various food items like bread, a bottle of hot sauce, and a box labeled "FEIJOADA BRASILEIRA".

Free Coxinha @ Neide's

Sample a taste of Brazil in the heart of Cambridge with a FREE small *coxinha at Neide's friendly market stall.

*A coxinha (koh-SHEEN-yah) is a fried pear-shaped manioc dough-ball, not unlike a croquette, filled with spiced shredded chicken, commonly accompanied with piri-piri sauce.

Catch Neide for a bite to eat and a natter or even a "nata" (traditional Portuguese custard tart) every Tuesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday & Sunday at the Cambridge Market, Market Hill, Cambridge CB2.

Neide serves delicious freshly home cooked Brazilian and Portuguese cuisine, including humble plates of Brazilian Feijoada, Spicy Lentils, Bacalhau (Dried Salt Cod) dishes and vegan and gluten free options. Also on offer are a variety of products ranging from Portuguese olive oil to Brazil's popular Guarana soft drink.

Rovers triumph away from home thanks to Holmes

HAVERHILL Rovers picked up their first away win in five games as they claimed a 2-1 success at Fakenham Town in the Thurlow Nunn League, Premier Division.

Rovers made a strong start to the game but the hosts scored against the run of play with their first meaningful attack of the match, Joe Jackson volleying past Charlie Turner from 10 yards in the 24th minute.

Football

Rovers netted a deserved equaliser in the 37th minute when Jordan Palmer and debutant Rafal Wozniak led a counter-attack.

Wozniak was brought down in the area by Town keeper Tom Rix and Palmer stepped up to fire home the spot kick.

Turner had to pull off a good save to deny Joel Glover following a corner just before half time as it remained 1-1 at the interval.

But it took just two minutes of the second half for Rovers to take the lead.

Mitchell Burr, returning to the starting line-up after three-and-a-half months away, slipped the ball to Sam Holmes, who outpaced a defender before shooting past a stranded Rix from eight yards.

There were some nervous moments among the away fans three minutes into stoppage time when Turner momentarily spilled the ball following a long throw-in, but he gathered it moments later to ensure there would be no equaliser.
